*Genesis 12:1-4a; Psalm

Matthew 17:1-9*

“Indeed, God did not send the Son into the world to condemn the world, but in order that the world might be saved through him.” John 3:17

“You wonder what to do when you feel attached on all sides by seemingly irresistible forces, waves that cover you and want to sweep you off your feet. Sometimes these waves consist of feeling rejected, feeling forgotten, feeling misunderstood (or condemned). Sometimes they consist of anger, resentment or even the desire for revenge and sometimes of self-pity and self-rejection. These waves make you feel like a powerless child abandoned by its parents.

What are you to do? Look at God and say, “Lord, have mercy!” Say it again and again, not anxiously but with confidence that God is very close to you and will put your soul at rest.”—Henri J. M. Nouwen, Inner Voice of Love.

Simplicity teaches us to live in the present, by letting go of the baggage of the past, to replicate itself in the future—Anonymous.
